Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2, 4, 7-8, 11-12 and 16-19, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wright (5,264,740).

As per claims 1 and 7, Wright discloses a programmable voltage hysteresis on a voltage comparator, comprising:

A comparator (20) comprising a first input (22) to receive signal during board interconnect testing, and a second input (24) to receive a reference voltage; and a programmable hysteresis circuit (26) coupled to at least one of the comparator inputs.

(See Fig. 1, col. 1, lines 27-44 and col. 3, lines 34-64).

As per claim 2, Wright further discloses wherein the programmable hysteresis circuit comprises a programmable hysteresis voltage generator (col. 3, lines 49-64).

As per claim 4, Wright further discloses that wherein the programmable hysteresis circuit comprises a programmable delay circuit (Fig. 2).

Art Unit: 2138

As per claim 8, Wright discloses a programmable voltage hysteresis on a voltage comparator, comprising:

A plurality of comparators, each comparator (20) comprising a first input to receive signal during board interconnect testing, and a second input to receive a reference voltage and a programmable hysteresis circuit (26) coupled to at least one of the comparator inputs. (See Fig. 1, col. 1, lines 10-44 and col. 3, lines 34-64).

As per claims 11-12 and 18-19, these method claims are rejected under similar rationale as set forth in the system claims 1 and 8.

As per claims 16 and 17, these method claims are rejected under similar rationale as set forth in the system claims 2 and 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 3, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wright (5,264,740) in view of Jenkins et al (5,610,545).

As per claim 3, the teaching of Wright has been discussed above. Wright does not disclose wherein the programmable hysteresis voltage generator comprises a current digital-to-analog converter to sink current from one of the first and second inputs. However, Jenkins et al disclose the programmable hysteresis voltage generator comprises a current digital-to-analog converter to sink current from one of the first and second inputs (col. 3, lines 30-32 and lines 40-47). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the programmable hysteresis voltage generator comprises a current digital-to-analog converter to sink current from one of the first and second inputs as taught by Jenkins et al into the invention of Wright to adjust the hysteresis differential to different preset and intermediate hysteresis levels.

As per claim 9, Jenkins et al further disclose: wherein the programmable hysteresis circuit comprises a programmable hysteresis voltage generator; the programmable hysteresis voltage generator comprises:

- a) a voltage divider... (col. 1, lines 35-36);
- b) a current digital-to-analog converter...(col. 3, lines 28-33); and

c) a current mirror... (col. 3, line 45).

As per claim 10, Jekins et al further disclose: wherein the programmable hysteresis circuit comprises a programmable hysteresis voltage generator; the programmable hysteresis voltage generator comprises:

a) a voltage divider... (col. 1, lines 35-36);

b) a current digital-to-analog converter...(col. 3, lines 28-33); and

c) a current mirror... (col. 3, line 45).

Allowable Subject Matter

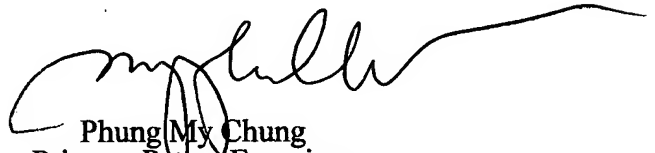

5. Claims 5-6 and 13-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Phung My Chung whose telephone number is 571-272-3818. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Albert Decady can be reached on 571- 272-3819. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
